Privacy, the Customer, and E-Commerce

Everybody is talking about it, everybody appears to be concerned, but do we know what the Privacy issue is all about? How will this affect our computer systems, our security controls, and our requirements for compliance with customer needs and new laws? Recent events like dot com sites going out of business and selling off customer information files raise legal and ethical issues as well as confront good customer relations practices.

A series of issues surrounding Privacy in E-Commerce will be reviewed and practical solutions provided to help ensure compliance as well as provide the best methods for making sure your customers understand how their information is protected.

Steve Sidebottom, CISA, CISSP is currently an information security risk assessment officer at BankOne in Columbus. He has over 30 years in data processing and information security experience and is learning new technology daily in the war against cybercrime.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE:
From the Desk of Tim Winslow

Welcome to a new and exciting year for the Central Ohio Chapter of ISACA! June 1, 2000 officially marked the beginning of my term as President. In May 2000, I attended the chapter leadership conference in Dallas, Texas and brought back several good suggestions from other chapters to our Board of Directors. I hope to strengthen our chapter this year by incorporating many of these ideas.

During these past few months, I have spent a lot of time preparing for this year with our new officers and board members. We have met on three separate occasions and have approved the chapter's operating budget, outlined some of the meeting speaking topics, and discussed educational seminar logistics. We plan to host a few monthly meetings at new restaurant locations this year and will also incorporate several member surveys into our curriculum. The feedback from these surveys will drive the direction of our educational topics and meeting locations so I encourage your participation. This is the chapter's only way to know the true needs of its members.

I'd would like to personally acknowledge our new chapter officers, directors, and chairpersons who have volunteered their efforts for a soon to be successful year. We are always on the lookout for additional assistance. This chapter, like many professional organizations, depends on the efforts of many volunteers to run effectively. Please contact myself or another officer or board member to help lend a hand in filling open committee or chairperson vacancies. Please remember, no contribution is considered too small and the time commitment is entirely up to you.

The results of the 2000 CISA Examination have recently been made available. I would like to recognize and congratulate the following individuals within the Columbus area who sat for and passed the exam on June 10, 2000.

I feel very excited about the upcoming chapter year and hope you do too. This is your chapter, so please provide us with feedback so that we can tailor the programs to meet your needs. I look forward to seeing everyone at Gameworks at Easton on September 7, 2000 for our first meeting of this chapter year.

The Pittsburgh Chapter of ISACA Invites you to their fall seminar

Securing Your Place on the WEB
September 11, 2000
The Sheraton Inn - Pittsburgh North

Registration Deadline
September 6th

Ken Cutler, Managing Director, Information Security Institute

World Wide Web (WWW) technology has been a major contributor to the exciting growth of the Internet. E-Business opportunities abound within the Web, but unfortunately so do security threats and vulnerabilities. Public WWW sites are a major target of successful attacks through a wide array of hacker exploits. In this intensive, one-day session, you will be introduced to the security and audit implications of the foundation technology for today's e-Business environment to help you reduce your risks of doing business in cyberspace.

Continuing Professional Education Credits...7 CPE credits awarded.
